Vatsal Kataria (VATKAT)

what does he create?

Vatsal Kataria is a photographer who makes tiny scenes that look like reallife places!

He builds small models using cardboard, glue, clay, and paint, then takes photos that look like big dramatic landscapes.

His work turns miniatures into realistic, magical photos!

Childhood

- Vatsal grew up in India, in the city of New Delhi.
- As a child, he loved making things with his hands.
- He didn't have lots of expensive toys, so he used creative materials to build things himself.
- He was very curious and liked to imagine big worlds in small spaces.

Education

- He didn't go to a traditional art school he taught himself!
- He learned photography on his own using online videos and lots of practice.
- He studied how to use lighting and angles to make small things look real.
- He learned to build model sets out of anything like Styrofoam, paper, mud, and paint!

Career

- Vatsal became famous for showing how he makes his photos using behind-the-scenes pictures.
- His work has been featured in magazines and websites all over the world.
- He has worked on advertising projects using his tiny sets.
